写汉字 WRITING CHINESE

You have learnt about the evolution of Chinese characters and how to write them in earlier student books. This section is to help you revise writing characters and also gives advice on developing strategies for memorizing them. Learning characters is undoubtedly hard work, but it is also fun and fulfilling.

STROKES IN CHINESE CHARACTERS

The basic strokes in a Chinese character are listed below with their names in English and Chinese. Many of these basic strokes can be found in the character 永 which means 'eternal' – perhaps a good adjective to describe the length of time it takes even native speakers to learn several thousand Chinese characters!

	Stroke	Chinese	English	Examples
1		点 diǎn	the dot	小 六
2		横 héng	the horizontal stroke, written left to right	一 有
3		竖 shù	the vertical stroke, written top to bottom	十 中
4		撇 piě	the sweeping left stroke, written top right to bottom left	人 爱
5		捺 nà	the sweeping right stroke, written top left to bottom right	八 欢
6		提 tí	the rising stroke, written from bottom left to top right	汉 习
7		钩 gōu	The hook can be written in any direction	到 对

TIP

Some people like to learn the names of the strokes and say them as they draw each character – in English or Chinese.

Try it and see if it helps you.

STROKE ORDER FOR WRITING CHINESE CHARACTERS

- |   |  |     |
|---|--|-----|
| 1 | Write from left to right.                          | 北 川 |
| 2 | Write from top to bottom.                          | 三 下 |
| 3 | Write horizontals before verticals.                | 十 羊 |
| 4 | Write left falling before right falling.           | 人 入 |
| 5 | Write from outside frame to inside strokes.        | 月 同 |
| 6 | Write major middle stroke before the two sides.    | 小 水 |
| 7 | Finish what is inside the box before you close it. | 日 四 |

TEN IDEAS FOR LEARNING CHINESE CHARACTERS

- 1 It is impossible to cram Chinese characters at the last minute. You need to practise them a little and often. It can be quite a relaxing break from other school work. Don't try to learn too many in one go.
- 2 Develop your own method for memorising. Whilst some students chant strokes or learn radicals, others find it helpful to look for pictures in the characters and link an imaginary picture with the real meaning to help jog the memory. Look for patterns or repeated components in groups of characters you are learning.
- 3 Make sure you are methodical. There will be some characters that you find easy. These don't need to be practised every day, but you still need to revisit them quite often. There will be other characters that you find particularly hard. Make sure you give them special attention.
- 4 Develop a learning schedule with either flashcards or a computer programme.
- 5 Look at online Chinese learning programmes (there are many on the Internet) and computer games in order to improve your character recognition. This will make it easier to learn to write them.
- 6 Stick 'post-it' notes all over your house labelling items with Chinese characters, so that you frequently see the ones you are learning.
- 7 Remember Chinese calligraphy is an art form. Have a go at writing characters with a brush and ink.
- 8 Don't get frustrated; it gets easier with time.
- 9 Have a look at books/websites on the origin of characters.
- 10 Be positive and enjoy it!

Radicals

As you know, radicals may give you a clue to the meaning of a character. The table below gives you the meaning of some common radicals.

口	mouth	吃
女	female	妈
犛	animal	猫
目	eye	看
扌	hand	打
氵	(three drops of) water	汁
讠	speech	说
口	an enclosed area	国
饣	meal	饭
火	fire	炒
艹	grass/plant	茶
石	stone	碗
舌	tongue	甜
车	vehicle (with wheels)	辆
日	sun, day	晴
忄	(vertical) heart	忙
亻	person	你
力	strength	男
土	earth	场
子	child	孩
辶	running	过
木	wood	树

Tip

Some learners like to work out the radical for some of the characters they learn and relate it to its meaning; this helps them memorise the character.
